CHILDREN IN THE MIDDLE

Fulfills 105.009 Parent Education and Family Stabilization Course.

CO-PARENTING CLASS

Divorce can be an agonizing and perplexing process for all children of all ages. Even the most loving and nurturing parents find it challenging to focus on their children's needs during such a time of distress—and rarely do they have the requisite skills to assist their children with the resulting lifestyle alterations and loss. As an educational mode, Children in the Middle does not address specific personal or litigious matters, nor is it intended to be substitute for legal advice. The vast majority of parents who have attended Children in the Middle viewed it is a very helpful and valuable investment of their time.

Who may attend? Any interested person or professional is welcome. Parents involved in a divorce, motion to modify, or other suits involving the parent/child relationship may be required by the court to attend. Children may not attend and childcare is not available.

What information is covered? Children in the Middle focuses on issues such as recognizing the effects of divorce on children, obtaining insight into a children's view of divorce, explaining family changes to children, learning how to avoid putting children in the middle of adult issues, and maintaining a significant and loving bond with your children.
